

EXPAT LIVING SINGAPORE – EDITION SEPTEMBER 2014

Pandawa Cliff Villa

The Newest Elite Havens

Our interview with Jon was held during the weekend launch of a stunning new villa, Pandawa Cliff Estate, on the southernmost edge of Bali's Bukit Peninsula. A large group of Bali-based journalists, wedding planners and travel agents gathered for the opening, and all were clearly impressed by what they saw. Indeed, you'd be hard-pressed to find a better location than this, high above the Indian Ocean and the white sands of Pandawa Beach, yet still less than half an hour from the airport.

The estate was designed by acclaimed Bali architect, Popo Danes, and it comprises three villas: The Pala (six bedrooms), Villa Rose (four bedrooms) and Villa Marie (six bedrooms) — a total of 16 bedrooms. The Pala (the name means “nutmeg”) is the flagship villa, and it announces itself with a towering, double-height entrance door of beautifully carved and painted timber, flanked by stone frescoes of frangipani. The villas share a sports centre with full-size tennis court, squash court, gym and spa.

The main event of the launch — a Friday night dinner and soirée — was held in the expansive landscaped cliff-top gardens, and on the decked areas around the villas' infinity pools. With this kind of setting, not to mention a team of 40 professional staff, it's easy to see Pandawa Cliff Estate becoming a hugely popular holiday and wedding destination. !
